February review areas of improvements:

- While I did not like what happened at the Blumenthol meeting, I do understand that when people come to our space who are not aware of our rules, we should do our best to let them know both what the rules are and why we have them, in a way that they can identify with.
- For example, in terms of asking students not to speak out of turn, explain that if they speak out of turn then their fellow students will not have a chance to speak. This will probably go over better than asking them to be respectful to our chancellor.
- I still sometimes sound nervous and swallow my words.
- I think people should be more careful with how they react to others in the SUA. Like, don't make faces at people's suggestions or groan. It's not respectful. I also know I need to be careful in following this rule.

In conclusion, I provide this summary as my detailed report for February 2015. If you have any questions, feel free to contact me.

Respectfully,

Andrew Benjamin Paolini
